"Where's Herman?"

"We had an infra-red light and a hot plate which heated water in a big galvanized tub where we kept our hot towels," Herman recalled. "About every second or third towel you'd take out, you'd get the full force of 110 volts where that tub was touching that hot plate."

Herman recalls that the entire athletic department quarters were about as big as the present training room at Memorial Stadium. Among the things in that training room now are three whirlpools, a medco-sonlator, diathermy, dyna-wave, hydrocollator, weights and a dozen other things needed in the treatment of today's athletic injuries.

Nowadays every football player has his ankles taped before going to the practice field. "Time was," Herman recalls, "we just taped the ones who really needed it. If they could walk, we sent 'em on out to the practice field."

Back then the practice field and the playing field were one and the same—Riggs Field—located behind the 'Y' and this was the 'Home of the Tigers' until Memorial Stadium was occupied in 1942.

Herman vividly remembers the mode of transportation in the late 30's and early 40's. "It was either by bus or, if we had a long trip up into North Carolina, we'd go by train. Say if we were playing in Raleigh, we'd leave here Friday afternoon on a sleeper and they would side-track us if we got in before daylight.

"I remember the first flying trip I went on. People saw us off in Anderson and wished us well," he recalls. "But it wasn't too long until we were back on the ground in Anderson with a dead engine. While most people thought we were at our destination, we were sitting in the Calhoun Hotel eating and waiting for another plane to arrive."

Those were the days when the old DC-4 or DC-6 droned on for hours. Quite a far cry from last Saturday when it took about 30 minutes to arrive in Winston-Salem out of the Greenville-Spartanburg Jetport.

Herman has seen all of the changes and improvements at Clemson as well as those made in equipment. He remembers taking 18 sections of bleachers down to the Big Thursday game in Columbia each year for the Clemson fans to sit on. And the day in 1941 when the athletic department moved into the spacious quarters of Fike Field House. And a year later when the first game was played in Memorial Stadium. Things will change even more in another year.

The training room then will then be in the Frank Johnstone Jervy Building and Memorial Stadium is expected to be carpeted with artificial turf. And another new group of freshmen athletes will be enrolled.

There are two things Herman refuses to do—to name his favorite sport and his favorite athlete. "I've traveled with all of the teams and I like whichever one is in season," he says. "And if I tried to say who my favorite athlete has been, we'd fill up this whole program."

But he will tell you the play that stands out in his mind the most. And that came in the 1951 Orange Bowl against Miami when Clemson's Sterling Smith tackled Frank Smith of the Hurricanes for a safety giving the Tigers a 15-14 victory. "I'll never forget that one," he beams.

Clemson athletic fans have been known for their cohesive spirit for decades—a spirit many schools would give a winning touchdown for. That is the one big reason Tiger teams have such great followings be it home or on the road.

Many former athletes are among these followers. Not only are they interested in seeing the latest group of Tigers perform, but they renew a lot of acquaintances around the athletic department with coaches and staff members.

And not many come back who don't ask: "Where's Herman?"

For if you have been an athlete at Clemson anytime in the last 38-plus years, chances are you had a bruise massaged, or an ankle taped, or a muscle wrapped by Herman. Or you may just have received a few words of encouragement from Herman and some of the ache and pain went away.

Herman didn't come in on the first load of bricks, but he wasn't too far behind. There aren't but two people still on the staff who were here when Herman came to work at the athletic department. One is Bob Jones, now in his 43rd year, and the other was Frank Howard, now in his 42nd.

He didn't know it in March of 1934 when they put him on the payroll, but Herman McGee had found a home. He wasn't quite 16 years old at the time.

At that time the athletic department was operating out of cramped, dinky quarters in the basement of the old Textile Building.

Herman, who is now assistant trainer, served in that same capacity from 1934 through 1948. He was trainer until 1957 and then was assistant trainer and equipment manager for two years. In June of 1965 he was recognized by the National Athletic Trainers Association for "twenty-five or more years of meritorious service in the field of athletic training."

Clemson has been to seven post season bowl games and so has Herman. "I'd like to see us go 12 and 0 for the next 20 years," he says.

Retirement? Although in his 39th year on the staff, Herman just turned 54 this past September, and he'll celebrate his 30th anniversary with the former Lucia Greene next February 8th, and not working hasn't entered his mind.

"I guess I'll have to make it to 65," he says. And it's a good bet he'll make it. But between now and then a person could become a rich man if he had a dollar everytime a former or present athlete asked: "Where's Herman?"

Herman McGee, that is.

The UNC Series

The North Carolina Tar Heels are up to their old tricks again—sitting on top of the Atlantic Coast Conference football standings. And they've been pretty consistent at this for the past couple of years.

The forces of Coach Bill Dooley notched their third straight ACC victory two weeks ago with a 21-0 triumph over Wake Forest, a team the Tigers defeated by 10 more points last Saturday. The Tar Heels took last Saturday off, but now have three straight conference games before closing out with East Carolina and Florida.

The Tar Heels have now won 12 conference games in a row. Not since the Deacons nipped them 14-13 in the seventh game of the 1970 season has North Carolina gone down before a league foe. In fact, in the last three and a half seasons, the Tar Heels have dropped only five ACC games, four of these by a touchdown or less.

North Carolina comes into today's contest with a 5-1 overall mark and 3-0 in conference play. Its only blemish was a 29-14 loss to No. 3-ranked Ohio State.

Maryland (31-25), N. C. State (34-33) and Wake Forest (21-0) all have gone down before the Tar Heel charge as have non-conference foes Richmond (28-18) and Kentucky (31-20).

Clemson, on the otherhand, has found its offense in the past two weeks, scoring 68 points and claiming wins over Virginia and Wake Forest. Fullback Wade Hughes has totalled 289 yards rushing in the last two games while quarterback Ken Pengitore has accounted for 327 yards running and passing.

North Carolina again this year is relying on a crunching ground game for most of its yardage. No less than 13 players have recorded at least one rush, but five players have been responsible for 290 of the Tar Heels 290 ground plays.

One amazing statistic on the Tar Heel backs is that the four leaders, Billy Hite, Ike Oglesby, Tim Kirkpatrick and Sammy Johnson, have been thrown for only a total of nine yards of losses this season, and that is on 242 rushes.

Hite leads the team on the ground with 355 yards on 98 carries and Oglesby is not far behind with 332 yards on 70 attempts. But the best average per carry belongs to fullback Tim Kirkpatrick. He has a respectable 5.5 yards average on 33 calls.

The Tar Heels have 1,430 of their 2,054 yards rushing, but quarterback Nick Vidnovic is a crafty passer and has completed 30 of 71 for five touchdowns. He has had only two intercepted. Alternate signal caller Chris Kupec has another aerial score, as does halfback Sammy Johnson, his good for 55 yards. Receivers Jimmy Jerome, Ted Leverenz, Ken Taylor and Earle Bethea.

Two of the conference's leading scorers by kicking will be in action this afternoon. Ellis Alexander has yet to miss on 21 extra points and he also has four of seven field goals. Clemson's Eddie Seigler 10 of 11 PATs and 7 of 16 field goals. Alexander has 33 points, Seigler 31.

The Tiger-Tar Heel series is an old one, but it hasn't been as consistent as some other teams on Clemson's schedule. The two schools first met in 1897, the second year Clemson fielded a team. Only five games were played between then and 1915 and there was a complete blank from then until 1957. But there has not been a break since that time.

Although Clemson holds an 11-9 advantage in the entire series, North Carolina holds three straight wins over the Tigers. Clemson also has a 9-6 lead in games since the ACC was formed. The Tar Heels won, 26-13, last year at Chapel Hill and went on to win the conference crown and a bid to the Gator Bowl.

"A COOL OPERATOR"

There are still some people around who have fainting spells when they think of the 1958 battle Clemson and Vanderbilt had in Nashville.

Both teams were undefeated. The Tigers had two come-from-behind victories, first over Virginia, 20-15, and then North Carolina, 26-21, before shutting out a tough Maryland team, 8-0. The Commodores had a 12-8 conquest over Missouri, had beaten Georgia 21-14 and played Alabama to a scoreless tie.

Clemson was 10th ranked in the nation and Frank Howard's club was destined to play the No. 1 ranked LSU Tigers in the Sugar Bowl. But the Tigers' first three quarters against the Commodores had been nothing but frustration. Fumbles and penalties had played havoc with both clubs, but Vandy's freight-train halfback, Tom Moore, had put the Commodores up 7-0 with a nine-yard scamper with 8:39 gone in the third quarter.

Clemson got the ball three plays deep into the fourth quarter following a Vandy punt. The Tigers started operating from their 24 and this time they were not to be denied.

First George Usry, then Rudy Hayes and Harvey White took turns at running the ball. Not one pass was thrown as the Tigers went the required 76 yards in 13 plays and 7:55 remained in the game when White sneaked the final yard. White tried a two-point pass but George Deiderich intercepted for Vandy, and the Tigers still trailed, 7-6.

Time was of essence for the Tigers, but Vandy gained good field position on the kickoff with a 20-yard return to the Commodore 41. One run netted two yards and another seven, but on the latter, Vanderbilt was called for clipping. A third down pass fell incomplete and Bobby Morgan returned a punt 13 to the Clemson 31.

Hayes hit right guard for two, White passed to Wyatt Cox for 18 before White kept for four and called on Usry, who gained eight to the Vandy 37. After Hayes grappled for four at left tackle and White earned two more at left end, White completed a four-yard pass to Usry for another first down at the Vandy 27 and the Commodores called time out with 3:29 remaining.

When play resumed White continued to methodically guide his team as if it were the first drive of the game.

Usry gained four in two runs, White added five and Hayes got the first down with a four-yard plunge. Hayes equalled his previous run on the next call and Usry found a hole to go nine to the one. White tried to sneak it in, but the Tigers were offside and set back to the six.

Usry regained three of the yards and White dived into the end zone with the winning touchdown with just nine seconds remaining on the clock. The Tigers had gone 69 yards in 15 plays and it did not matter that White was stopped

Quarterback Harvey White — in 1958 short on a two-point running attempt.

White turned in 43 minutes of playing time against the Commodores and in that time, he out-rushed Vandy's entire team, 106 yards to 102, and had 60 yards in the air compared to 59 for the home team, besides scoring both touchdowns.

Fred Russell, renowned sports editor of the Nashville Banner, told White after the game: "Your overall quarterback effort was the greatest performance Dudley Field has ever had, and as great as any I have seen." Dudley Field was built in 1922 and Russell didn't miss too many games there during his long tenure on the Nashville paper.

For his magnificent performance in leading the Tigers in the come-from-behind victory on those two crushing, relentless scoring drives, the 6-2, 200-pound White was named national back-of-the-week.

The victory over Vanderbilt was the fourth in a row for the Tigers, and even though they were to lose two of their last six, the 8-2 overall season mark earned them a trip to play the LSU Tigers in the 1959 Sugar Bowl, who were led by Billy Cannon and a group of defensive specialists known as the Chinese Bandits.

Although Clemson finally succumbed to the LSU Bengals, 7-0, 1958 had brought national recognition to the little school nestled in the Blue Ridge foothills because Frank Howard had the hosses and wasn't afraid to play anybody at anytime anywhere.

But of the 679 football games Clemson has played, none has worked quite as much on the nervous system as that October 11th night in Nashville when a group of determined Tiger athletes, following Harvey White's calls in the huddle, beat the clock just in time for a 12-7 victory.

Harvey White (arrow) scores Clemson's first touchdown against Vanderbilt in 1958. White later scored winning TD with nine seconds left in the game and earned national back-of-the-week honors.

A Great Day For A Great Player

FRED CONE, Clemson: Called by Frank Howard "the best player I ever coached," Fred Cone had many great Saturday afternoons, but probably his greatest came against Auburn in 1950. The Tigers were rocking along with a 7-0-1 mark with Auburn the last game. Rumor had it that if Clemson beat the Plainsmen by 40 points, an Orange Bowl bid would be forthcoming. The temperature hovered just a few degrees above zero at the "loveliest village on the Plains" and all the long underwear in Auburn and Opelika had been purchased for the players. In addition, fires in 55-gallon oil drums were built behind the benches. Cone was called on 33 times that afternoon. He gained 163 yards and scored three times. He caught one pass for 28 yards and another touchdown and punted twice for a 31-yard average. Clemson won the game, 41-0, and an Orange Bowl bid where the Tigers beat Miami, 15-14. Cone held 10 season and career Clemson records when he graduated. Six still stand today.

FRED CONE

ERIC TIPTON

ERIC TIPTON, Duke: To win a football game when your team gains only 58 yards on offense and manages only one first down demands a herculean effort. Just that kind of effort was forthcoming on Nov. 26, 1938, when Eric Tipton put on probably the greatest punting exhibition in football history to lead unbeaten, untied and unscored-upon Duke to a 7-0 victory over Pittsburgh. Before the then largest crowd in Southern football history and in the face of a heavy, surprise snowstorm, Tipton literally kicked Pittsburgh to death. From the first offensive series when Tipton punted 52 yards dead on Pitt's 10, the Panthers were backed to the wall. Of Tipton's 20 boots, 12 were downed inside the 20, five inside the 10. Pitt mounted one serious drive in the first quarter, from the Pitt 19 to the Duke 12, but on fourth down Tipton threw the ball carrier for a loss, then promptly punted 64 yards to the Pitt 19. Pitt's vaunted offense never recovered. Tipton had a hand in the Duke score, also. Early in the fourth quarter he planned Pitt back to its own six. On first down Pitt attempted to punt but Willard (Bolo) Perdue blocked it for a Duke touchdown. Five more Tipton punts sealed the victory.

ED MODZELEWSKI

EDDIE KESLER

ED MODZELEWSKI, Maryland: In the 1952 Sugar Bowl it was the third ranked Maryland Terrapins against National Champion Tennessee. Most of the experts picked the talented Volunteers over the 9-0 "Old Liners." Among other things the contest was billed as a battle between two All-Americans, Tennessee's triple-threat tailback Hank Lauricella and Maryland's bruising fullback, Ed Modzelewski. When the game was over it was no contest as "Big Mo" turned in one of his greatest days. His 153 yards on 28 carries was only three yards shy of the Volunteers' total offense for the day. A contemporary observer wrote, "Modzelewski ran through Tennessee's guards and tackles like they were swinging doors." After the final gun Modzelewski was chosen as the Outstanding Player of the Game, a fitting end to a Great Day for a Great Player.

FRED COMBS

as fate would have it, it was Kesler who got the glory when the two backs ended their college play in a game against Duke in 1964. Duke geared its entire defense to stop Willard and did a fair job of it. Carolina did what comes naturally. The Tar Heels faked to Willard and gave the ball to Kesler. Eddie responded with 172 yards in 23 rushes to set a new school rushing record. His effort broke a long-standing record established by the great Charlie (Choo Choo) Justice in the 1940s. With Kesler running in high gear, the Tar Heels defeated the Blue Devils, 21-15, in Kenan Stadium.

FRED COMBS, N. C. State: All-America Fred Combs intercepted a pass in the final moments of N. C. State's 1967 victory over Houston on a clutch play that enabled the Wolfpack to hold on for a convincing win and bounce into the Top 10 Rankings for the first time that year. The Cougars had the most potent offense of 1966, but trailed State, 10-6, with just over two minutes remaining in the game. On a fourth down situation at the State 48, Cougar quarterback Ken Bailey attempted to pass to split end Ken Hebert, but Combs intercepted and returned the ball 38 yards. Houston was second-ranked at the time, and the win, insured by one of Combs' greatest plays, enabled State to score again for a 16-6 triumph. Wolfpack mentor Earle Edwards rated the game as State's best ever and credited the interception by Combs as the turning point of the contest. Combs recalls the Houston game as the sweetest victory of his career.

TOM SCOTT, Virginia: Tom Scott, Virginia's only two-sport All-American (football and lacrosse) and one of its very few lettermen in four sports (also basketball and baseball), played one of his greatest football games Nov. 17, 1951, against the South Carolina Gamecocks in Charlottesville. The Cavaliers trailed early, but rallied late in the fourth quarter to win by a 28-27 score. Scott set up the second touchdown by catching two crucial first down passes and scored the third on a 16-yard swing pass from Charlie Harding. Then he took over the defensive thrust from his end position. In one series he deflected two passes and nailed Steve Wadiak, USC's outstanding back, for a six-yard loss, helping to preserve a narrow 21-20 lead. The Cavaliers scored again and a late USC touchdown was meaningless. It was Scott's heroics on offense and defense which won the day for Virginia.

EDDIE KESLER, North Carolina: Eddie Kesler, one of the finest fullbacks in University of North Carolina history, never made many headlines because he played his entire career in the shadow of the famed halfback Ken Willard. But

BRIAN PICCOLO

BRIAN PICCOLO, Wake Forest: Atlantic Coast Conference Player-of-the-Year in 1964, Brian Piccolo had many outstanding games in his three seasons of varsity play at Wake Forest. As the nation's leading rusher with 1,044 yards in his senior year, he scored 17 touchdowns and 111 points and gained numerous All-America honors. His value to the team was unmatched throughout his career, and was perhaps best shown in one game during his junior year. On Nov. 16, 1963, he led the Deacons to a 20-19 win over South Carolina to end an 18-game Wake Forest losing streak. He rushed for 140 yards on 21 carries, scored once on a 16-yard run, and kicked the game-winning extra point in the closing minutes. He was truly a standout performer and a genuine Wake Forest All-American.

Welcome To Clemson University

Welcome to an afternoon of Tiger football at Clemson University's Memorial Stadium. We are delighted to have you visit the campus. The famous Clemson spirit is not confined to the gridiron, and we hope you'll have the time while you are here to see and learn and share our excitement about some of the activities in progress at Clemson today.

Look around you, beyond the confines of the stadium, at the visible signs of a University on the move. To the west — just across from Littlejohn Coliseum — is the fast-rising Frank Johnstone Jervy Athletic Center, a 90,000 square-foot facility included in the total University Union and Activities Program.

To the northeast is an old campus symbol, Fike Field House, now undergoing complete remodeling and expansion as another part of Clemson's multimillion-dollar construction program for University Union and Activities Facilities. The new Fike Recreation Center is destined to become the cornerstone of a strong physical-recreation program for the entire University family.

Another source of special pride is our new Alumni Center, fronting the Clemson House. It provides a comfortable "home on the campus" for visiting alumni and adequate office space for an expanding alumni program. The Alumni Center was made possible through special gifts from our alumni.

Not as visible, but even more vital to Clemson progress, is the uncompromising dedication and hard work here to help solve some of man's most pressing problems.

Clemson scientists are seeking practical solutions to the puzzles of environmental pollution; to the development of improved methods of production, harvesting, processing, marketing and distribution of agricultural commodities. Clemson people are working to improve medical and health-care systems and delivery services, grappling with complex urban problems, developing education programs that prepare today's students for life and tomorrow's world, and providing the expert training and manpower so necessary for the modern business and industrial concerns.

In each endeavor, one idea remains constant: The work at Clemson University touches people's lives; it matters.

It's a time of fulfillment in the University's life, an exciting time, and we've glad to have you share it with us during your visit this weekend. I hope you get to know Clemson. It's quite an education.

IPTAY--

Special Recognition

The Clemson IPTAY Club received over a half million dollars in contributions in the year just closed, marking the first time an excess of $500,000 had been realized. But this was the sixth straight year that contributions had exceeded the previous year.

Several thousand former Clemson student-athletes, as well as several hundred currently enrolled at the university, depend solely on contributions from individuals and firms for their education. Every penny received by IPTAY since its beginning in 1934 has been used for athletic scholarships only.

Clemson has set an outstanding example for other educational institutions throughout the nation with its IPTAY program. It is probably the finest collegiate booster club in America today.

Clemson athletics would be no where near the high plateau it maintains today without these individuals and firms who believe in the Clemson program and contribute to its success each year. It is with pleasure, and with their permission, that we pay tribute to those so vitally interested in the Clemson athletic program.

BILL McLELLAN

DIRECTOR of ATHLETICS

Twenty-two years ago Bill McLellan walked on the Clemson campus for the first time. And ever since his initial visit he has worked hard each year to improve the state institution.

A native of Hamer, S.C., McLellan earned two letters for the Tigers in football under former coach Frank Howard and was a member of Clemson's 1952 Gator Bowl team.

He received his BS in agronomy from Clemson in 1954 and was then awarded a graduate research assistantship while working on his MS degree in agricultural economics which he received in 1956.

McLellan joined the athletic staff May 1, 1958, and the personnel office listed him as the assistant business manager.

But the hard working McLellan literally became a jack of all trades. He handled the ticket sales, saw that the grass was cut, purchased the athletic equipment and then when the normal working day was over for most of the university staff, he was on the football field -- serving as an assistant to Howard.

During those days of the intricate substitution, McLellan was the sideline bookkeeper for Howard.

He was appointed assistant athletic director in 1966 and was named director of athletics Feb. 4, 1971.

Only the third man to hold the title of athletic director over the past 41 years, McLellan immediately set his goals on a sound program and one that would make Clemson students, faculty, alumni, IPTAY and friends of the school proud.

"We have a great student body," the dedicated McLellan remarked. "And we are most fortunate to have a fine group of fans who support the Tigers.

"One of our goals is to make improvements within the department, but we are also making equal improvements for our student body as well."

Work is well underway on the renovation of Fike Recreation Center which will provide space for all of the most popular indoor sports and physical training activities. Among these will be a Natatorium which includes a standard AAU-size swimming pool and diving tank.

And when the Tigers take the field Sept. 9th against The Citadel, fans will sit on new aluminum seats which were installed this past summer.

The Jervey Athletic Center, which will house administrative offices, coaches' offices, dressing rooms and ticket office, is expected to be completed within the next 15 months while the new nine-lane track is over 75 per cent complete.

Those are just some of the things that Bill McLellan is doing for Clemson which will give the Tigers a physical athletic plant that will be second to none.

And Bill McLellan will continue working. He will work to put Clemson athletics at the top. He's that kind of person.

McLellan is married to the former Ann Rogers of Fork, S.C. They have four children, two daughters -- Suzy and Arch Anna -- and two sons -- Bill and Cliff.

BILL McLELLAN

THE COACH

He's an organizer and a leader. And most of all he's a dedicated and determined young man.

That's a good description of Hootie Ingram, entering his third season as head coach at Clemson.

His goal is a simple one. To rebuild the Tigers, a team that used to run roughshod over the other members of the Atlantic Coast Conference, into the power they once were.

When Ingram was named as successor to Frank Howard, a man who became a legend in his own time during his 30-year head coaching reign at Clemson, he began to assemble coaches from all directions of the country.

With his staff, he blended them together with his squad and introduced a system that was new to all concerned.

In his initial campaign, Ingram's Tigers scrapped and toiled through a rugged 11-game schedule.

Although Clemson managed to record just three wins in 1970, the Tigers fought courageously in each outing, with three of their losses coming at the hands of teams who landed berths in a post-season bowl.

After a shaky start a year ago, both the Tig offense and defense came alive and Clemson finished with a 5-6 mark, which included a 3-0 win over previously undefeated and nationally-ranked Duke and a 17-7 victory over arch-rival South Carolina. In addition, the Tigs finished second in the ACC.

And four of the setbacks in Ingram's second year at the helm came against teams who were invited to participate in a post-season contest.

So things are definitely on the up-swing at Clemson. And Ingram won't be satisfied with just victories over certain opponents or just an ACC title. His sights are much higher.

And to people who know Hootie Ingram, all realize he is a sincere individual. Football is his game and a top-notch program is his trademark.

Following graduation from the University of Alabama in 1955, Ingram, a Tuscaloosa native who was an All-Southeastern Conference defensive back for the Crimson Tide, received his MA in school administration from 'Bama.

His coaching career began in the prep ranks as Ingram served as head mentor at Bradenton, Fla., High for one year and at Tuscaloosa County High for three years.

Ingram then served as an assistant at Wake Forest one year and at Virginia Tech for three seasons.

In the next three years as an assistant at Georgia, the Bulldogs made two bowl appearances as did Arkansas in his final three seasons as an assistant under Frank Broyles.

Hootie Ingram has compiled a lot of football knowledge over the years. Beginning with the years at Bama when he led the nation in interceptions (10) and in yards returned (163) as a defensive back and his two bowl appearances with the Crimson Tide, through his assistantships under such men as Broyles and Vince Dooley; and all the way to his present stop in the small town located in the northwestern part of the State of South Carolina.

He's making things happen at Clemson. Because Hootie Ingram is that type of guy.

Ingram is married to the former Toni Snider of Tuscaloosa, who also holds graduate and undergraduate degrees from Alabama. They are the parents of three children -- two daughters, Robin (16) and Lane (9) -- and one son, Cecil, III, (13).

TOM BASS, Defensive Line Coach

One of the "old heads," Tom Bass has served under two head coaches at Clemson -- first Frank Howard and now under Hootie Ingram.

Now in his sixth year with the Tigers, Bass came to Clemson from Tennessee where he was an assistant for the Volunteers for one season.

The Mooresville, N.C., native starred in both baseball and football at Maryville College and earned his BA in biology in 1960.

Bass served as assistant coach at Sevier County High School in Sevierville, Tenn., one year before being elevated to head coach, a position he held for the next four seasons, compiling a 35-7-2 record and being named East Tennessee "Coach-of-the-Year" in 1964.

Bass served as head freshman coach at Clemson his first three seasons before being named defensive line coach.

He is married to the former Susan Price of Knoxville, Tenn., and they have three children, Thomas Steven, 6; Laura Jane, 4; and John McAndrew, 2.

LARRY BECKISH, Head Jayvee Coach

Although he's the most recent addition to the staff, Larry Beckish is not a newcomer to Clemson. He was a Tiger assistant for three years, two under Frank Howard and one in Hootie Ingram's initial year.

Beckish, who served as a varsity assistant and worked with the receivers, left Clemson following the 1970 campaign and accepted a similar position on Fran Curci's staff at the University of Miami, Fla.

A native of Haledon, N.J., Beckish received his BA degree in education from Wichita State in 1963, where he earned three letters in football. The personable Beckish captained the '63 squad and was also named to the All-Missouri Valley Conference team as an end.

Following graduation from WSU, he remained at his alma mater the next two years then served as offensive line coach at Tampa for two seasons.

Beckish is married to the former Alice Morley of Wichita, Kan., and they are the parents of two children, Michael, age 7; and Chris, age 2.

JOE BURSON, Defensive End Coach

A real fireball, Joe Burson was hired by his old coach, Hootie Ingram, when the latter accepted the head position at Clemson.

Burson was a top-notch defensive back at the University of Georgia, where he graduated with a BS in industrial arts in 1966. Following graduation, Burson was drafted by the Washington Redskins but had to forego a professional career due to an old college injury.

A native of Newnan, Ga., Burson coached at Griffin, Ga., High School for two years before coming to Clemson.

In his initial season with the Tigers, he served as head defensive coach for the freshman unit and was elevated to the varsity staff the following year, 1971, and placed in charge of the defensive ends.

Burson is one of the two unmarried members on the staff.

WHITEY JORDAN, Offensive End Coach

The only home Whitey Jordan has known in the past 17 years is Clemson. He came to Clemson upon graduation from Florence High School, starred for the Tigers on the gridiron four seasons, and has been here ever since.

Jordan was a starting end on Clemson's 1957 Orange Bowl team and also traveled the bowl route as an assistant coach in the 1959 Sugar and the '59 Bluebonnet Bowls.

Following graduation from Clemson, Jordan served as an assistant freshman coach four seasons and was named head freshman coach in 1964.

After the five-year term with the Cubs, Jordan was named offensive end coach in 1965 and was the head offensive coach for Frank Howard in 1968 and 1969.

Jordan served as offensive line coach in Hootie Ingram's first year at the helm and was moved back to his spot as offensive end coach prior to last fall.

Jordan is married to the former Kappy Stewart of Florence and they are the parents of four children, Kim, 16; Karol, 14; Stewart, 13; and Jo Kyle, 10.

JIMMYE LAYCOCK, Assistant Jayvee Coach

One of the friendliest individuals on campus, Jimmye Laycock enters his second season as an assistant on Hootie Ingram's staff.

A native of Hamilton, Va., Laycock lettered in football, basketball, baseball and golf at Loudoun Valley High School and upon graduation in 1966 he entered William & Mary.

Laycock played both defensive back and quarterback for the Indians and then received his AB in physical education in 1970.

Following graduation he served as the offensive co-ordinator at Newport News High School for one season.

Laycock, who will complete his requirements for a Masters in Education at Clemson this fall, worked with the freshman linebackers a year ago and will continue with those duties in addition to helping in scouting and recruiting.

He was married to the former Ginnie Klemkowski of Baltimore, Md., this past June, and they serve as dorm counselors in Mauldin Hall, which houses the Tiger athletes.

GEORGE MacINTYRE, Defensive Backfield Coach

One of the most alert coaches in the game, George MacIntyre came to Clemson from the University of Tampa.

Mac played both quarterback and defensive back at the University of Miami, Fla., in his undergraduate days, completing his BS in physical education in 1961.

He entered the coaching field at Jacksonville's Terry Parker High School, serving as defensive coach one season and as offensive backfield coach one year.

But his talents were soon discovered by his colleagues at Miami, and Mac returned to his alma mater, where he served four years as head freshman coach and head recruiter.

Mac then went to Tampa for two years as defensive backfield coach, a position he now holds at Clemson. And it's his group in the Tiger secondary that is one of the most solid units in the entire area.

A native of St. Petersburg, Fla., MacIntyre is married to the former Betty Harvey of Jacksonville. They have two sons, Michael, 7; and Matt, 3.

TOM MOORE, Defensive Jayvee Coach

Only in his second season at Clemson, Tom Moore joined Hootie Ingram's staff last summer.

A native of Dayton, Ohio, Moore played with New York Jet quarterback Joe Namath at Beaver Falls, Pa., High School.

Upon graduation from high school, Moore entered The Citadel where he lettered three years in football as a halfback and wide receiver. He was named All-Southern Conference and team captain his senior year.

After receiving his BS in political science from The Citadel in 1967, Moore served as a graduate assistant one year at his alma mater.

The young coach then went west, serving as offensive co-ordinator at Aurora Central High School in Aurora, Colo., one year; head freshman coach at Wichita State in 1968 and wide receiver coach at WSU in 1969-1970.

Moore is married to the former Joyce Stewart of Clemson and they have one son, Rhett, 2.

GORDON NORWOOD, Offensive Jayvee Coach

Another ex-player for head coach Hootie Ingram, Gordon Norwood joined the staff at Clemson following Ingram's appointment.

Born in Little Rock, Ark., Norwood attended the University of Arkansas and received his BS in physical education in 1970.

He earned two letters as a quarterback at Arkansas and was a member of the Razorbacks 1968 Sugar Bowl championship team. A fine collegiate athlete, Norwood also participated in freshman basketball and varsity track at U of A and lettered one year in golf.

Prior to joining the staff at Clemson, Norwood served as a graduate assistant on Frank Broyles' staff at Arkansas.

Norwood, who is single, has been working with the freshmen since coming to Clemson.

DUKE OWEN, Offensive Line Coach

Clemson's overall improved play in 1971 was aided by the improved play of the offensive line, which Duke Owen assumed duties of prior to the beginning of the season.

Owen graduated from Georgetown, Ky., College in 1953 with a BS in mathematics and physics and immediately became a successful prep coach.

Owen guided Mount Sterling, Ky., HS to a 76-29-4 overall record in a nine-year period, taking his team to the state playoffs in three of his first five years.

He then joined the staff at the University of Kentucky where he served five years and then went to Cincinnati where he was offensive line coach one season.

In his initial season at Clemson, Owen was head freshman coach and then moved to the spot as offensive line coach last year.

The Lebanon, Ky., native is married to the former Florence Deeb of Louisville, Ky., and they have two sons, David, 14; and Mitchell, 12.

STEVE SATTERFIELD, Offensive Backfield Coach

Following a successful tenure in the high school ranks, Steve Satterfield joined the staff at Clemson as head freshman coach. After a year at the helm of the Cubs, he was named as offensive backfield coach for the varsity this past June.

The Greer, S.C., native quarterbacked South Carolina teams for three years and was named All-ACC Scholastic in 1958.

After serving as a prep assistant four seasons, Satterfield was head coach at Greenville's Wade Hampton one year and then at Sumter's Edmunds High for six years.

While at Edmunds, Satterfield's teams posted a 45-19-3 mark, including a 4-A state championship and an undefeated 12-0 record in 1969.

Satterfield, who holds his masters from Appalachian State, is married to the former Barbara Woodall of Taylors, S.C. They have three children, Keleigh, 12; Steven, 8; and born this past February, Susan Joy.

DOUG SHIVELY, Linebacker Coach

Last fall, Doug Shively moulded Larry Hefner (All-ACC and now property of the Green Bay Packers) into one of the finest linebackers in the country. And look for more fine linebackers to be turned out at Clemson in the future.

The Lexington, Ky., native graduated from the University of Kentucky where he was a standout in both football and baseball.

He was introduced to athletics at an early age as he is the son of the late Bernie Shively, longtime director of athletics at Kentucky.

Shively served on the staff at Virginia Tech for six years, three with coach Hootie Ingram.

He then returned to his alma mater for a three-year term, one season as linebacker coach and two years as head defensive coach.

Shively is married to the former Patsy Moores of Lexington. They have three children, Douglas, Jr., (Chip), 11; David, 9; and Kelly, 6.

CLYDE WRENN, Assistant Jayvee Coach

A native of Chester, Clyde Wrenn joined the Clemson staff this past summer as defensive co-ordinator for the 'B' team.

An all-around athlete at Chester High School, Wrenn played baseball at Spartanburg Junior College.

He earned his BS in Recreation and Park Administration from N. C. State in 1965 and following graduation was named as head assistant football and head baseball coach at Southside HS in Florence.

Wrenn, who earned his Masters from Western Carolina in 1968 in Education, coached at Southside five years before going to West Florence High School as head football coach and athletic director, where he served for two seasons prior to joining the Clemson staff.

In addition to his duties with the Jayvee team, Wrenn will also assist in recruiting and scouting.

He is married to the former Willa Lynn of Chester and they are the parents of two boys, Craig, 3; and Cal, 5 months.

FRED CONE, Chief Recruiter

What more can be said of Fred Cone. Frank Howard calls him "the greatest football player I have ever coached."

Cone came to Clemson from his native Pineapple, Ala., and when the stocky running back graduated in 1951 with a BS in agricultural education, he left his mark in the Tiger record book.

He established 10 school rushing and scoring records, six of which still stand among season and career marks, and led his teammates to the 1949 Gator Bowl and to the 1951 Orange Bowl.

Cone played in the National Football League a total of eight seasons, seven with the Green Bay Packers and one with the Dallas Cowboys.

Now entering his 12th year at Clemson, Cone is married to the former Judy Anderson of Green Bay, Wis. They have three children, Jeff, 17; Andy, 15; and Amy, 12.

RICK ROBBINS, Academic Advisor

There are 315 players on his team as Rick Robbins serves as academic advisor for all Clemson athletes.

A native of Austin, Tex., Colonel Robbins, as he is called by all athletes, has his hands full keeping tabs on the classroom work of all athletes. In addition, he serves as assistant track coach.

Robbins graduated from the University of Texas and retired from the U.S. Army with the rank of lieutenant colonel.

Aside from seeing many of his athletes graduate with honor from Clemson, Robbins has successfully aided in negotiations between Tiger stars and professional teams, such as Charlie Waters (Dallas Cowboys), Dave Thompson (Detroit Lions), Larry Hefner (Green Bay Packers), Wayne Baker (Oakland Raiders) and John McMakin (Pittsburgh Steelers).

Robbins is married to the former Clare Eaves of Palestine, Tex. They have two sons, Dick, 18; and Tommy, 14.

Only nature can deliver electricity through thin air.

By 1981, we'll have to spend $1,500,000,000.00 on wires and things.

Worry to make life easier.

FRED HOOVER, Head Trainer

For the past 13 years, Fred Hoover has been taking care of the medical needs of Clemson athletes, keeping them in shape for the various coaches.

Hoover, a native of Jacksonville, Fla., graduated from Florida State with a BS in physical education in 1953.

He has served as trainer at FSU in 1952-53 and again in 1957-58. Hoover has been the trainer for the United States at the Pan American games in Sao Paulo, Brazil, in 1963.

And this past summer, "Doc" Hoover, recognized as one of the top men in his profession, was selected as a member of the training staff for the US team in the summer Olympic games in Munich, Germany.

A member of the National Athletic Trainers Association, Hoover is a past district director and past national president of NATA, and is currently serving as the national convention chairman of the association.

Hoover is married to the former Elva Cook of Mt. Vernon, Ill. They have two children, Catherine Ann, 14; and Bryan, 11.

ANDY CLAWSON, Assistant Trainer

The newest addition to Clemson's modern training program, Andy Clawson joined Fred Hoover's staff July 20, 1970.

The likeable native of Ada, Okla., graduated from Henderson State College, Arkadelphia, Ark., with a BSE in physical education in 1969. He received his masters from HSC in physical education the following year.

Clawson served as student trainer four years at Henderson State when HSC went to the NAIA basketball tournament in 1967-68 and also in 1968-69.

Upon graduation, he was appointed as Henderson State's full-time trainer while working on his masters.

Clawson, who is single, is a member of the National Athletic Trainers Association and is currently serving as editor of the NATA news-letter for District III.

HERMAN MCGEE, Assistant Trainer

There's not a single person who's familiar with Clemson athletics who doesn't know Herman McGee.

McGee has served as assistant trainer, head trainer and as equipment manager in his past 38 year tenure on the Clemson staff.

In 1965, the Clemson native was recognized by the National Athletic Trainers Association for "25 or more years of meritorious service in the field of athletic training."

He can relate some of the most interesting and fascinating stories about Clemson ever known.

McGee has made all seven bowl appearances with the Tigers: the 1940 Cotton, 1949 Gator, 1951 Orange, 1952 Gator, 1957 Orange, 1959 Sugar and 1959 Bluebonnet.

He is married to the former Lucia Greene of Pendleton, S.C.

TOM BURTON, Equipment Manager

A retired Army sergeant, Tom Burton is the ideal man for the job as Clemson's equipment manager.

A native of Richmond, Va., Burton handles the school's athletic equipment as if it were a group of his favorite recruits.

He served a total of 22 years of active duty, serving in eight foreign countries, including Asiatic-Pacific area, Germany and three tours of the Far East.

Burton served on the Clemson ROTC staff for seven years and also worked with the Clemson Tiger Band as head chaperone.

He has just recently completed a survey, in conjunction with the Clemson Textile Department, in a effort to come up with the perfect formula to wash equipment that will keep it from shrinking.

SIX NORTH CAROLINA PLAYERS ON CLEMSON SQUAD

Six members of the Clemson football team are North Carolina natives who will be hoping for a Tiger victory when the Tar Heels visit Death Valley today. They are, left to right, David LeBel of Jacksonville, Lawson Holland of Statesville, Mike Mathews of Canton, Mark Fellers of Charlotte, Tim Blackwelder of Charlotte and Jeff Stocks of New Bern.

Chevrolet. Building a better way to see the NCAA.

Laguna Colonnade Hardtop Coupe

The new 1973 Chevelle Laguna. Good news, Chevelle fans. Now you can move up to more car without leaving the make you love most. You can move up to the new 1973 Laguna.

Laguna is a new kind of Chevelle, the top of the line. It has a special front, a special rear and a special interior. The distinctive front is made mostly of a material called urethane that resists dents and dings. Styled right into the front end is the new improved front bumper system that retracs on minor impact and helps cushion the shock.

Inside there are rich-looking fabrics, wood-grain vinyl accents, a soft-rim color-coordinated steering wheel, map pockets and other luxurious appointments.

Laguna, like other '73 Chevells, has the new Colonnade hardtop roof design, power flow-through ventilation, front disc brakes, and more rear seat leg room than ever before.

The 1973 Laguna. A new and better way to see the NCAA.

Chevrolet. Building a better way to see the U.S.A.

Enjoy the game. And remember to buckle up on the way home.

COLLEGE WEEK

ACTS AND ACTION BY SENIOR CITIZENS

By Ross Cornwell/Associate Editor, University News Bureau

Clemson University added some very special graduates to its growing number of alumni this past summer when more than 250 students stepped up to receive their diplomas after one of the most unusual — and talked about — educational programs in the country: “College Week for Senior Citizens.”

They came from throughout South Carolina — 32 counties in all — to attend five days of special classes in the only program of its kind anywhere in the United States.

They may have lacked the bell-bottomed jeans, sandals and most of the hair of today’s typical college students, but they lacked none of the enthusiasm and demand for relevant education in their lives. Their presenece on the Clemson campus was proof that youth is truly a state of mind, and it provided eloquent testimony to the dignity inherent in creative and productive old age.

“I’m 83 years old, but I never think about that,” Mrs. Mamie Fields of Charleston (the state’s “Older Citizen of the Year”) told her fellow students at the graduation banquet. “My motto is ‘Keep on keeping on.’ Just remember this: when you read the Bible, don’t read the book of Lamentations; read the book of Acts.”

“Acts” and “action” admirably sum up the week’s program for the senior citizens, whose ages ranged from 65 — the youngsters of the group — to 93.

The week offered a curriculum of both cultural courses and practical advice. There were, of course, socials, tours, and classes on subjects like gardening and arts and crafts, but there was a heavy emphasis on consumer and health fraud, volunteer work opportunities, legal problems for the elderly, learning how to adjust emotionally to growing older, and religion and the golden years.

They studied diligently, worked and played hard. They recognized completely that the purpose of College Week for Senior Citizens was not just to fill their time, but to gain a lot of useful knowledge — and then use it.

Program Director Charlie White, who is an assistant professor of recreation and park administration at Clemson, says that College Week for Senior Citizens is in philosophy a 52-week program.

"We hope that these students — or rather graduates — will go back into their communities and share their new knowledge and practical leisure-time skills with other elderly citizens. Next year we'd like the program to expand even more, and judging from the enormous response we've had, it will," he says.

College Week is sponsored by the S. C. Commission on Aging, the S. C. Churchman's Committee for Older Adult Ministries, the Clemson University Extension Service, and the University's Department of Recreation and Park Administration.

This is the second program in the annual series. Enrollment this year was up almost 200 from 1971. Total cost for the entire program was $30 a person, certainly one of the lowest tuitions for college students anywhere.

A bill of rights for senior citizens was read at the conclusion of the program. Its articles express quite clearly the purpose and goals of College Week for Senior Citizens: Each of our senior citizens, regardless of race, color, or creed, is entitled to:

- the right to be useful.
- the right to obtain employment, based on merit.
- the right to freedom from want in old age.
- the right to a fair share of the community's recreational, educational and medical resources.

— the right to obtain decent housing suited to the needs of later years.

— the right to the moral and financial support of one's family so far as is consistent with the best interest of the family.

— the right to live independently, as one chooses.

— the right to live and die with dignity.

— the right of access to all knowledge available on how to improve the later years of life.

Things are looking up for Clemson basketball as Bates Locke enters his third year at the Tiger helm.

The young cage coach has four starters returning from last year's unit headed by 6-11 Dave Angel (13.9) and 6-7 Mike Browning (11.9).

Other starters back include 6-0 Terrell Suit (11.2) and MVP Bud Martin (6.4).

Locke has four fine performers advancing from the 1971-72 Cub team that was 13-3 on the year with 6-3 Van Gregg (23.7) and 6-10 Wayne Croft (18.2) both expected to be in the running for a starting role.

Also in contention for a starters berth are Anderson JC transfer Jeff Reisinger, a 6-6 forward who chipped in 19 points per game a year ago, and 6-1 Ron DiPasquale and 6-8 Marty Patterson.

DiPasquale, from Pace College, and Patterson, from The Citadel, transferred to Clemson last year and had to sit out the season.

It looks to be an exciting year at Tigertown during the 72-73 cage year with such teams as NIT champ Maryland and NIT runnerup Niagara playing in Littlejohn Coliseum along with the other powers of the rugged Atlantic Coast Conference and some fine outside competition.

ARA-Slater's philosophy is a unique, systematic approach designed to achieve our most important goal: STUDENT SATISFACTION. This concept is a result of our experience with millions of students. We have the flexibility to understand your needs and the capability to satisfy them.

At Clemson, ARA demonstrates practical, new methods for providing nourishing, well-balanced meals to athletes, students and staff. Our corporate and regional specialists give ARA's dining service manager expert advice in planning menus, purchasing goods, controlling waste, utilizing labor. The support of this team effort is carried out daily in Schilleter Hall and Harcombe Commons, and at the Clemson House Buffeteria. It is our desire to serve students what they want and to accommodate them by providing this same efficient service for special events or festive holiday meals.

We're here to provide the type of service that will benefit the entire school and community. THAT'S WHAT WE THINK A DINING SERVICE IS ALL ABOUT.

IPTAY Educates Student Athletes

It was organized in 1934 to support the athletic program at Clemson. And since that time, IPTAY has blossomed into what is probably the finest collegiate booster club in America today.

The late Dr. Ruppert H. (Rube) Fike is responsible for IPTAY's beginning that first year. His thought was being churned around when the Tigers were at one of their lowest depths of football. Clemson had won only seven games while losing 17 and tying five in three years.

The beginning of IPTAY was an adrenaline to football and the initial success experienced was more than anticipated. For the next eight seasons, the football teams had break even or better records. And the sixth year after IPTAY was born, the Tigers went to their first post-season bowl game.

IPTAY was organized — and it still functions in the same manner today — with one purpose in mind, that is, to finance athletic scholarships at Clemson. Not one single penny contributed during the past 39 years has been used for any other purpose. And all contributions are tax deductible.

But no one imagined, not even Dr. Fike, that IPTAY would expand in the manner that it stands today. For the past eight years, contributions to IPTAY have exceeded each previous year. And the year which ended August 31st was by far the biggest ever.

Previous to Sept. 1, 1972, the officers and directors of IPTAY proposed the largest goal ever in the history of the organization when $500,000 was decided as the amount needed to give Clemson a well rounded athletic program. As the 38th year of IPTAY closed, the officers and directors were pleased to announce that $513,470 had been contributed—an excellent testimony by alumni and friends of Clemson to their faith in the athletic program at Clemson.

A new year—the 39th—began Sept. 1st. IPTAY will continue to provide funds for student-athletes seeking an education which might be impossible otherwise.

During this past year a new category in IPTAY was begun, that being the Scholarship Donor. Twenty individuals or firms have donated $2,000 each in their name to be designated as an IPTAY Scholarship Donor.

In addition, 22 have contributed $1,000 or more, 81 $500 and 312 at least $250. In 1966, the $100 Gold Card was started and this year there were 1,879 who made gifts of at least $100.

However, the strength and backbone of the organization is in the 7,267 people who are regular IPTAY members of at least $20. These figures add up to give IPTAY the banner year that it has had during its 38th year of service to Clemson's athletic program.

While football was to be the main beneficiary of IPTAY funds, Clemson's other athletic teams have also benefited from the program. Conference championships have been won in football, baseball, basketball and tennis, not to mention the numerous All-American and all-conference honors won by individuals.

IPTAY means an investment in the future. Its yearly stream of "alumni" are the leaders of tomorrow.

Coaches for Homemakers

Bringing Campus Knowledge to South Carolina Citizens

By L. C. Hamilton/Extension Information Specialist

In many ways good homemakers are self-made — like good athletes. They aren't born that way.

That's how it is for Mrs. Peggy Weed, a housewife in South Winnsboro, S. C., and a participant in one of Clemson University's most valuable public service programs.

A former teenage bride and now a mother of four, Peggy says she's "learning for the first time how to manage the affairs" of her growing household — a decade and a half after her marriage. "I've been put on the ball," she says, adding, "until last summer, I didn't know a thing about homemaking."

Mrs. Weed is typical of the interesting people the University's Cooperative Extension Service works with in its efforts to "coach" South Carolina citizens into a better accommodation with the day-to-day problems of life.

The Fairfield County homemaker is one of those enrolled in Clemson's "Expanded Food and Nutrition Program," now operating in 29 South Carolina counties with the cooperation of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The Weeds are one of about 300 families taking part in the improved nutrition program in Fairfield County. More than 10,000 families are enrolled throughout the state.

"Like many young girls, I was not interested in learning homemaking skills during my teenage years," Mrs. Weed says. Then, with the responsibilities of wife and mother coming at an early age, "I didn't have the opportunity to learn."

She was overcome by a sense of futility.

Now, since joining the program a year ago, things have changed.

"I get up every morning planning something new for the day," says Peggy.

She has covered her table with new and more appealing meals for her husband, who is employed in a nearby industrial plant, and four growing children, who are 14, 13, 12 years, and 14 months old. She has redecorated her kitchen, purchased a sewing machine, and made curtains and draperies for the entire house. Now she's busy making clothes for herself and the children.

"All this is costing our family less — not more. Closer attention to meal planning and buying alone is saving about $5 a week," she says.

Mrs. Weed's greatest delight is observing her family's changed attitudes about mealtime. "They used to come into the kitchen and say, 'Oh No! I don't want that.' Now they come in to help."

Learning simple things, the fundamentals, did the trick, she says.

It began when Mrs. Jo Ann Burroughs from the Clemson Extension Office in Winnsboro called at the Weed home. "She asked me if I'd join this new program to learn how to make more appealing meals and get more pleasure out of homemaking. I didn't know how to fix many things the children would eat. I said 'yes'," says Peggy.

Mrs. Burroughs, a program assistant working under Homemaking skills mean better meals for Mrs. Weed's family who now enjoy home-canned fruits and vegetables. Daughter Melissa drinks milk made with a money-saving powdered mix. In addition to teaching nutrition, Mrs. Burroughs has helped Mrs. Weed learn to sew.

County Extension Home Economist Mrs. Theresa Beckham, made this entry in her log after visiting the Weed household:

"They need help in meal planning and ideas for saving money. The children like milk, but the boys are growing so fast it takes a lot more than she can afford. On my next visit we'll make the children milk shakes with powdered milk."

It was learning one of those simple things – in this case, how to make nourishing cherry milk shakes – that won the enthusiastic interest and support of Mrs. Weed and the children. Mrs. Burroughs then prepared a list of all the foods the family had used during the previous week, information needed to determine the family's minimum daily food needs for future planning.

On each visit thereafter, the program assistant left a list of ingredients for Mrs. Weed to get. Mrs. Burroughs also brought new recipes and demonstrated the best way to mix and cook them.

Peggy says the recipes are putting new zest in the family's meals. "They especially like salmon loaf, yeast bread, tuna salad, tuna-corn casserole, meat loaf, baked beans and weiners, and boiled custard made from powdered milk.

"Another favorite is cabbage and lunch meat. They would never eat cabbage before. I cooked it in too much water. Now I've learned to add only two tablespoons and they love it."

Peggy's new pride in her kitchen did not stop with menu planning. She has also covered food canisters, hung new curtains, acquired measuring spoons and cups, added recipes.

She ventured her first attempt at canning, putting up okra, carrots, tomatoes, pickles, preserves, and jellies. She's planning for a larger vegetable garden this year to give her more products for canning.

The gratifying response of her husband and the children has strengthened Peggy's resolve to excel at homemaking. "I wouldn't take anything for what I'm learning," Peggy told her husband recently. "Other wives should get interested in this program. They would enjoy it."

The "Expanded Food and Nutrition Program" is one facet of Clemson University's outreach program under its broad mandate to carry meaningful knowledge from the campus to all the citizens of the state.

It's Clemson's way of real-life "coaching." And because there are so many enthusiastic people like Mrs. Weed, it's a coach's dream.

Innovation

On the field, in the mill or laboratory the game plan is the same—meeting the challenge with a new idea, technique or twist to established methods.

This is the concept that has sparked the go and grow of Sandoz Colors & Chemicals; and, why we spell Innovation with a capital "I". The successful completion of this plan demands know-how, team-work, stamina and the will-to-win. Just as assuredly as you see these qualities in your team, you will also see them in Sandoz Colors & Chemicals.
